

Keyguard

Keyguard is a small wall-mounted digitally operated safe, used for storage of a small number of keys to be accessed by authorised personnel.

Keyguard is commonly used in locations where carers, home helps and others can gain access to the home, without the need for the door to be left unlocked, which would otherwise create a security risk.

Domestically, Keyguard offers a convenient and secure means of leaving a spare key for use by members of the family, thus avoiding the need for too many keys in circulation and the inherent risk of losing them. The digital combination is very simple and quick to change to your own code, with a combination from the ten digits 0 - 9, using any digit only once.

Standard Keyguard is suitable for mounting to a flat surface of brick or stone or to a timber door frame.
